

Home at Last - Auschwitz Survivor

Like every story of a witness, Kurt has written his to honor those who weren't as fortunate, to inform young people as they grow up in the world today of what can happen when good people do nothing. He is retired now and lives with his wife, Doris in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. He is a speaker to groups of students, schoolteachers, and civic leaders near his home in Harrisburg. Compelled to write his story if for no other reason than to document the unique evil that befell the victims of the Nazi Party in the last century. As nothing in his own childhood could have prepared him for the horrific years that followed -- from a youth with a normal, easy-going life to a starved prisoner exposed to death and torture everyday from 1945 through 1945, going from two concentration camps and then finally, to the death camp that was Auschwitz.
